These opportunities have been placed on website and students/researchers can access and submit application forms through NAEAC, received forms will be transmitted to Agro Bridge for further processing and final selection by Agro Bridge after formal interviews. Thus, NAEAC has bridged the gap between industry and students who are looking to enhance their skills while practically working in the field. This is first step towards higher goals of well trained and skilled researchers/workers. This generous offer will open many doors for students and industry in future.
